The many friends of Dr. B. L. Allen will regret to learn of his illness, having typhoid fever. Dr. Allen has not been well for the two past months, and has now been in bed for nearly two weeks. A trained nurse is assisting in nursing him, and his sister, Mrs. Mary Ashley, whose soft and gentle hand is splendid in the sick room, has been with him and his wife since his illness. His symptoms on Sunday were more favorable.

Dr. and Mrs. C. P. Corn spent the week end at Walhalla with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Strother.

The Apollo Music Club met with the President, Mrs. Mims Walker on Tuesday afternoon and a most pleasant time was had with the lesson study, and the beautifully rendered Virginia Joins Dry Sisterhood November 1.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 25.—Virginia will join the sisterhood of prohibition States on November 1, when the Mapp act, prohibiting the sale of ardent spirits except by bonded drug stores, and throwing stringent restrictions around its shipment, will become effective. About 650 liquor dealers will close their doors. They have been preparing to close for several weeks and stocks are being disposed of rapidly. Liquors valued at hundreds of thousands of dollars have been purchased by consumers and stored up against the "dry" days to come.

It will be unlawful after November 1 for any person in the State to manufacture, transport, sell, advertise, give away, dispense or solicit orders for ardent spirits, which are defined to embrace alcohol, brandy, whiskey, rum, gin, wine, porter, ale, beer, all malt liquors, absinthe, and all compounds of any of these with vegetables or other substances. In the same category are placed fruits preserved in ardent spirits, all beverages containing more than one-half of one per cent. alcohol by volume.

The prohibition law doesn't apply to cider containing not more than 1 per cent. of alcohol by volume. Provision is made for the handling of pure grain and fruit alcohol and pure whiskey and brandy by drug stores, for medicinal, pharmaceutical, scientific and mechanical purposes, and of wine for sacramental purposes for use by religious bodies.

The manufacture of cider from fruit of one's own raising and for of whiskey, one gallon of wine or three gallons of beer. Ardent spirits are prohibited in lodge rooms, clubs, fraternity houses and other public places. Newspapers published within the State are prohibited from carrying liquor advertisements, but the sale and distribution of newspapers published out of the State and carrying liquor advertisements are permitted.

The first violation of any provisions of the law is deemed a misdemeanor, finable from $50 to $500 with a confinement in jail for not less than one nor more than six months. The second offense, if not a felony, is punishable by fines from $100 to $5,000 and confinement in jail for not less than six months nor more than one year; if a felony, by confinement in the penitentiary for one to five years, or, in the discretion of the jury, by confinement in jail for from six to 12 months.

There has been much speculation as to the effect of the law in the seaport cities of Norfolk and Newport News. The attorney general and prohibition commissioner declares that the statutes will be carried out to the letter so far as the machinery of the State will permit.

The Mapp act creates a prohibition commissioner at a salary of $3,500 a year, who will be charged with the enforcement of the prohibition law.

Card From "Uncle Iv."

Hav'n't had a visit from you now in two weeks. Hope there is nothing the matter with you. But I sure do miss your visits very much, because it is always like a letter from a sweetheart, and you know, or ought to know, how a fellow feels when such a missive comes to him, especially if it's full of something good, and the old Advertiser always has something in it that does this old fellow good.

HARDY'S HAPPENINGS.

Union Meeting at Mt. Zion. "George Swearingen" Road Fine. New Automobiles Purchased.

We attended the Union meeting Sunday at Mt. Zion, although the day was very gloomy and rain was threatening with an occasional sprinkle. With east wind, we made the trip of about 14 or 15 miles without getting wet. The pretty new church was pretty well filled, and we had a fine sermon in the morning from Dr. J. T. Littlejohn, after which an hour for dinner. Every one enjoyed the splendid repast, also the social chats and meeting those we did not already know. The time soon came for the afternoon sermon which we enjoyed very much, by Mr. Joe Gaines, pastor of Ebenezer. Should we be ashamed to say it? No, for we do love little babies so. that the dear little babe of Mr. and Mrs. Gaines drew our attention more than the sermon for awhile.

We traveled over a part of the noted "George Swearingen" road and it was fine. We wish we had some of Mr. George Swearingen's over on the old Martintown road that would be public spirited enough and get a move on all those who travel it, to work. Clay the sand and sand the clay, grade the hills and straighten the many crooks and corners, so this would be another "pike," and then there would be lots more travel. As it is, the weather has been grand all the fall, the autos spin by day and night, and just lots of new ones have been bought in Augusta and gone up by this road.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Jr., have moved back to the home place over in "The Corner." We see these three young folks pass to and from school in North Augusta daily.

Miss Sallie DeLaughter is still attending school at Winthrop.

Mrs. DeLaughter and J. P. Jr., visited her father, Mr. John Hightower on Sunday.

We were glad to see Mrs. Julia Townes well enough to go to Augusta on Saturday.

Sorry to hear Mr. Will Briggs' little daughter is having the chills again. Hope she will soon be out.

We are sorry that Mrs. Luta Baynon is sick in Augusta, while on a visit to her friend Mrs. Joe. Sacre. Hope the Dr. may soon be able to let her come home all right again.

Resolutions Commending Judge Greene.

Just before the court adjourned sine die, Ex-Gov. J. C. Sheppard in behalf of the Edgefield Bar, in a few well chosen remarks, expressed to His Honor, Judge William P. Greene, the thanks of the Bar for the courtesy and impartiality and ability, which had characterized the discharge of the duties of his high station by the presiding judge.

Upon the conclusion of Mr. Sheppard's remarks, he presented to the court resolutions which the Bar had adopted, and requested that they be ordered spread upon the minutes of the court.

The presiding judge expressed his appreciation of the action of the bar, and assured the members of the Bar of his appreciation of the treatment which he had received at their hands throughout the term.

The following are the resolutions adopted by the Bar:

"Resolved by the members of the Bar, that the thanks of our Bar are due, and are hereby cordially tendered to His Honor, Judge William P. Greene, for the impartiality, the courtesy, and the ability which have characterized the performance of his important duties by His Honor; and it is the earnest wish of the members of our Bar, that we shall have the pleasure of having His Honor with us for further service at some future day."

Attended Antioch Hallowe'en Entertainment. Mrs. Mays Has Improved. Party Motored to Augusta.

After being absent so long I will knock at your door for admittance into the columns of your valuable paper.

We have been visited by several light frosts, reminding us that winter is fast approaching. As I sit by my window and write these lines it is a lovely sight to cast my eyes out on the beautiful trees that have changed their dress from a green to a golden one.

Quite a happy little crowd of young people went in two-horse wagons to Antioch Friday night to attend the Hallowe'en entertainment given for the school. Each one felt abundantly repaid for the trip.

We wonder why it is that Mr. Levi Holmes continues to make such frequent visits to the home of Mr. James Smith. We are tempted to make a dead line and forbid his crossing it lest he attempt to steal one of our fairest maidens.

Mr. J. P. Holland of Greenwood spent Saturday night in the home of Mr. C. A. Wells en route to see his ———. Mr. Holland did not arrive at Mr. Wells' until after supper but we were all so glad to see him, as he could carry us to the movies that night.

Mrs. Emma Atkins of Trenton is visiting in the home of her brother, Mr. Wallace Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Wells of your town and Mr. W. T. Lundy of Rogers, dined in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Wells Sunday.

Miss Emma Mays who has been iting several days at Van Cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Wells, Mrs. A. A. Wells and Mrs. Jessie Crafton motored to Augusta Monday by way of Edgefield. Everything ran smoothly until within about seven miles of home, when we had a blow-out. The sun was down and we had no light on the car, so Mrs. C. A. Wells and Mrs. Jessie Crafton had to walk two miles to borrow a lantern to furnish light for the remainder of the homeward journey.

News From the Edgefield Schools.

Last week, Mr. Lyon received a letter from Mr. Swearingen, and in the letter was some work for the American History classes to do. Some of the questions were: Find the No. of enrolled voters from 21 to 29 years of age and the No. of these voters making their mark in Edgefield county? The same questions were asked for those from 30 to 39, from 40 to 49, from 50 to 59, and from 60 on up. The work was done by the pupils, and out of 439 voters between 21 and 29, 20 could not write their names. There were 273 above 60 and 44 of those made their mark. We found that the percentage of white illiteracy among Democratic voters in Edgefield county, as shown by the 1916 rolls was 11.4. This shows what a large amount of ignorance we have right at our door, but it also proves that the young people of today are taking more interest and getting a better education than those of yesterday.

We were delighted to have Mr. A. S. Tompkins and Mr. McManus visit us on last Wednesday morning. Mr. McManus conducted the Chapel exercises, and Mr. Tompkins made a talk which put everybody in a good humor. The only trouble was that they did not stay long enough.

Dr. Jeffries came to see us Friday morning, and we enjoyed his talk to the utmost. It seemed like "old times" to have him with us once more.

The first grade teacher, Miss Chappel, spent Thursday, Friday and Saturday in Columbia. Mrs. Wallace Tompkins filled her place in the school room. Misses Lydia Brunson and Genevieve Norris and a number of high school girls half, both sides did good work and the score was 9 to 10. The last half, however, favored Johnston and at the close, the score was 9 to 19 in her favor. We are not discouraged, by any means, and hope to have another game real soon.

Death of Mrs. Quarles, Other Red Hill News.

The union meeting of the 2nd division met with Mt. Zion church last Saturday and Sunday. The program was carried out as published. The attendance on Saturday was small, but the interest in the union was good. The congregation on Sunday was large, the collection was for State Mission. The Mt. Zion people have quite a neat house of worship now. Bro. P. B. Lanham, their pastor, has led this band of Christians for 16 years. Rev. Gaines the new pastor at Trenton was present at the union. Mr. Gaines is quite an addition to our union and association. He is young, handsome, and well prepared for his work. Mr. Gaines made a good speech and Saturday, and Sunday afternoon he preached a splendid sermon. We thrice welcome Bro. Gaines into our union and the Edgefield association.

Mrs. Cynthia Quarles died here last Friday afternoon and was buried near Johnston Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Quarles was a great sufferer for the last 20 years of her life, she was an invalid for these 20 years. While she suffered, she bore it all as becometh the children of God. She leaves four children and a host of friends to mourn her loss. We extend our prayers and sympathy to his loved ones.

Last Thursday afternoon a dog that was supposed to be mad bit the two youngest children of Mr. and Mrs. Byrd McClendon, the children were carried to Georgia for treatment. The dog first attacked the youngest child, age about two years, the older child, age about five years, went to the assistance of her little sister, she pulled the dog off his sister and was bitten in the face by the dog. This brave little girl deserves a Carnegie medal.

CORNELL UNIVERSITY.

Miss Sue Sloan Writes Charming Letter, Describes Unimpaired. Gives Glimpses of University Life.

In a previous letter, I explained having passed a most rigid examination in the four years course of the "Progressive Series of Piano Lessons," and of my anticipation of reviewing this work by taking a Normal course at Cornell University. The realization of this wonderful opportunity was really beyond my expectation in advantages, and any artist brush or poet's pen could not give the faintest idea of the grandeur and magnificence of the wonders of nature, talents of men in making this, which the encyclopedias describe as the most beautiful college grounds in the world—the dominating position of the University, four hundred feet above the city of Ithaca, N. Y., on the Seneca Lake.

From the campus, few sights in the world command from a single vantage point an outlook over peaceful settled valley, forest crowned hills, gorges with foaming falls, and a long panorama of blue lake waters of Conga. From its surface level rising four hundred feet is the campus plateau. This is best described when you hear more than five thousand students singing.

Far above Congas waters, with its waves of blue, stands the noble Alma Mater, glorious to view, lift the chorus, speed it onward, loud her praises tell, hail to thee our Alma Mater, hail, all hail Cornell. Far above the busy humming of the bustling town, reared against the arch of Heaven, looks she proudly down on the beautiful city of Ithaca.

One of the handsomest buildings on the Cornell campus is Roberts' Hall, the main building of the College for agriculture making. This enables them to have splendid fare. They get things fresh from these gardens, and also have dairies and poultry yards combined with the invigorating air.

The hospital, though so wonderfully equipped, is more ornamental than useful. One of the most important features of Cornell's location is the health giving qualities which give the student strength to gratify his intellectual ambition. Provisions are made for exercise, for they have the most attractive tennis courts, etc., for out-door amusements. This is thoroughly illustrated with moving pictures and a wonderful lecture on Cornell life. These pictures are copies of the buildings and photographs of the students and faculty of Cornell having races, football games, golf, tennis, etc., awarding of the cup to the winners which convinces you that they regard exercise and diversion important, and innocent amusement necessary to place the student in position to reap the best benefit of the wonderful opportunities placed within his grasp. No doubt, Ezra Cornell, the founder of Cornell University, had this in mind when he invested on this site. The campus crosses the hill in the center. An arch of magnificent elms over the main approach to the quadrangle, and the avenue is beautiful at all seasons, in spring, a dense shade, in fall, when the gay foliage makes it resplendent with color.

Ezra Cornell not only gave much of his wealth, but several years of arduous toil in locating and purchasing western timber lands. He was loath to have his name attached to the institution, and insisted on this site near Ithaca, N. Y., which can best be viewed from the dominating feature of the Cornell campus.

The Liberty Tower. From the open windows, you behold the picturesque landscape, the towering peaks in the distance, the campus crowning the hill tops, the villages, the lovely lakes, and on their shores attractive shrubs, flowers and trees. Cascadilla Creek has scenery as wild and romantic as any in the
